GRATUITOUS EXHIBITION.
DENTAL CABINET.

MR. J. EMANUEL, Surgeon Dentist, invites his Patients, Medical Gentlemen, and the public in general, to inspect an Automaton case that he has received from Paris, including the most beautiful specimens of the Dental Art. It is so contrived that complete sets of teeth of various bites are seen in motion, showing their acting power when fixed in the mouth, and the invaluable benefit derived by the use of artificial teeth, both for mastication and articulation, when constructed on the above scientific principles. Mr. Emanuel can confidently assert that in this city there has never been seen of this ingenious science such exquisite and finished workmanship, embracing all the latest Parisian improvements of dental contrivance; many persons complaining of the inconvenience of wearing large plates of gold in the mouth, this principle will completely set aside the prejudice frequently felt by many ladies and gentlemen requiring artificial teeth. On view daily at Mr. E.'s residence, where he may be consulted in all cases appertaining to his profession. At home from 9 A.M. till 5 P.M.

THE AUSTRALIAN BENEFIT INVESTMENT AND BUILDING SOCIETY,
(Established in July, 1848, under the Acts of Council 7 Victoria, No. 10; 11 Victoria, No. 10; and 11 Victoria, No. 53.)
470, GEORGE-STREET, SYDNEY.

G. P. F. GREGORY, ESQ., CHAIRMAN.

A SUMMARY of the ADVANTAGES of the SOCIETY, with short explanatory Tables.

THE OBJECTS OF THIS SOCIETY ARE TO BENEFIT ITS MEMBERS—

1. AS BORROWERS.
1. By advances to shareholders for the purchase of freehold and leasehold property, re-payable in easy monthly instalments, secured on the property so bought.
2. By enabling them in the same easy mode to pay off any incumbrances to which their property may be subjected.
3. To increase their capital by a mortgage of it, if unincumbered, redeemable on the same easy terms.
4. To enable tenants to convert rent into the means of purchasing their own dwellings.
5. To enable mortgagors to convert interest into the means of reducing the principal.
6. To assist parties desirous to build by advances for that purpose.
7. To aid intending purchasers by advance of deposits for purchase of approved properties at auction.
8. To secure to such of the foregoing classes, to whom the expense of conveyances, mortgage deeds, and insurance is too great an outlay at the outset of their operations, arrangements by which such expense may be liquidated in gradual instalments.

2. AS DEPOSITORS.
1. By furnishing them with the means of a highly lucrative investment for small savings, if continued for the whole period of the duration of the Society.
2. To afford to parties desirous of accumulating a sum certain within a given period, (less than the computed duration of the Society), a higher rate of profits in return for small monthly deposits than is generally yielded through the Savings' Bank.
3. To enable a father by the time a child attains manhood, to establish him in trade, or to provide for an apprentice fee, or both, by an easy and yet fruitful mode of saving.
4. On the other hand to place it in the power of the young to provide, by a small monthly payment saved from their earnings, a residence for parents, or an aged relative.
5. To afford trustees of benevolent and religious institutions an easy and convenient mode of raising funds.
6. To enable a few persons contributing monthly subscriptions readily to extinguish a debt affecting such, or any other institution.

AN EXPLANATORY STATEMENT,
Prepared for the use of parties intending to become members of the above institution, may be had on application at the office of the Society, or of the Solicitor, Mr. E. Sandford, Foster's Buildings, Elizabeth-street.

CURES IN SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

THE following extraordinary Cures are authenticated by Mr. John Stephens, of Adelaide, the respectable proprietor of the Adelaide Observer and South Australian Register, and have been published in his papers:—
George Muncton, a settler in the bush, who had been suffering for four months with a swollen leg, and in such pain as to deprive him of sleep, was recommended to try Holloway's Pills, at the same time using the Ointment, as directed. In the course of a fortnight, the cure was so far effected as to permit him, on the 7th October, to walk into Adelaide without pain, a distance of twenty miles, to give us this statement for the information and benefit of his fellow-creatures.
November 2nd, 1847.
Mrs. Elizabeth Harker, of Willunga, who had been nearly thirty years a sufferer from an ulcerated leg, produced by a blow, was induced to try Holloway's Ointment in conjunction with his Pills. A small box of each was purchased, and before the whole was used the leg was perfectly healed, leaving scarcely any trace of a wound, which had defied the skill of several practitioners both in England and this colony.
The above cases attested, 2nd November, 1847, by JOHN STEPHENS,
Hindley-street,
Wholesale Agent for Adelaide.

These truly invaluable Medicines can be obtained at the Establishment of Professor HOLLOWAY, near Temple Bar, London, and of Arrivals. — November 6. Shamrock, steamer, from Sydney; Colina, schooner, from Port Albert; Raven, brig, from Launceston.

Loss of the new Brig Elizabeth.—On Sunday night, during the violent storm of wind which raged for several hours, this vessel, on her way from Geelong to Launceston, was blown ashore about ten o'clock, near Cape Schank. She cleared the Heads about five o'clock on that afternoon, with a fine breeze from the N.W. by W. until about seven o'clock, when the wind suddenly veered round to the S.W., blowing in squalls with rain, with such violence that little canvas could be carried; and the vessel not answering her helm, both anchors were let go to club haul her, which proved unsuccessful, and she went ashore with much violence. Her cargo consisted of 500 sheep, out of which number 326, with a few sundries, were lost. She was a new vessel, and built at Launceston, this being her second trip to this port and commanded by an experienced seaman. The crew remained by the wreck all night, and landed safely next morning.—Port Phillip Herald, November 7.

"Sworn to no Master, of no Sect am I."

REVENUE AND TAXES OF THE BRITISH COLONIES.

We have before us two recent Parliamentary Papers of more than ordinary interest. One of them is the Appendix to Minutes of Evidence taken before the Select Committee of the House of Lords on Colonization from Ireland, ordered to be printed 21st July, 1847; the other, a Return to an Address of the House of Commons on the subject of Colonial Revenues, Disbursements, and Accounts, ordered to be printed 23rd July, 1847.

In these two documents is comprised a mass of statistical and miscellaneous information relating to the British colonies, which, for fulness, authenticity, and recency of date, is unequalled by any publication extant. We have here a complete catalogue of Her Majesty's colonial dependencies, with the date of capture, cession, or settlement of each; its form of constitution; its population, commerce, revenue, and expenditure, exhibited under a variety of classifications. We are thus enabled to see how our own colony stands in comparison with others, as to its powers of production and consumption, its fiscal burdens, its cost of government, and its value to the parent State. Some of the principal facts bearing upon these questions we shall endeavour to place before our readers in a clear and compendious shape.

Let us begin with the subject of Revenue. The returns on this head are divided into two sets, relating respectively to colonies with and colonies without Representative Assemblies. It will perhaps be sufficient if we confine our attention to those of the first class, since they are in that particular most analogous to our own. The revenues are for the latest periods to which the accounts had been received in England, some being for the year 1845 and some for 1846. They are given under eleven subdivisions; but we propose taking only "Taxes and Excise," and "Gross amount of Revenue." Ranging the colonies in their numerical order of population, the returns are as under:—

	*Population.	Taxes.	Gross Revenue.
Canada	1,164,600	£31,600	£555,300
Jamaica	377,400	61,000	294,400
Nova Scotia	178,200	....	65,200
New Brunswick	156,100	....	123,000
New South Wales	130,900	65,400	356,700
Barbados	122,200	12,500	57,500
Newfoundland	75,100	....	67,100
Prince Edward Island	47,000	....	15,700
Antigua	36,400	2,600	32,900
Grenada	29,600	5,000	15,000
St. Vincent	27,200	6,100	17,000
Bahama	25,200	2,300	25,800
St. Kitt's	21,600	840	14,400
Dominica	18,300	1,800	10,800
Tobago	13,200	2,800	7,000
Bermuda	9,900	5,800	12,100
Nevis	7,500	300	4,600
Montserrat	7,100	700	2,800

We have now to see what proportion the taxes and gross revenue of each colony bear to the number of its inhabitants. Placing them in the order in which the ratio of gross revenue takes the lead, the several colonies will be found to contribute about the following averages per head of population:—

	Gross Revenue. £ s. d.	Taxes. £ s. d.
New South Wales	2 14 6	0 10 0
Bermuda	1 4 5	0 11 9
Bahama	1 0 6	0 1 10
Antigua	0 18 1	0 1 5
Newfoundland	0 17 10	....
New Brunswick	0 15 9	....
Jamaica	0 15 7	0 3 3
St. Kitt's	0 13 4	0 0 9
St. Vincent	0 12 6	0 4 6
Nevis	0 12 3	0 0 10
Dominica	0 11 10	0 2 9
Tobago	0 10 7	0 4 3
Grenada	0 10 2	0 3 5
Canada	0 9 6	0 0 7
Barbados	0 9 5	0 2 1
Montserrat	0 7 11	0 2 0
Nava Scotia	0 7 4	....
Prince Edward Island	0 6 8	....

It thus appears that as regards the ratio of gross revenue per head of population, New South Wales stands pre-eminent above all the colonies; that is, above all the colonies having Representative Legislatures. The one which approaches it most nearly, Bermuda, contributes less than one-half. The mean ratio of all the rest, Bahama excepted, is rather below 12s. per head; so that New South Wales exceeds them four-and-a-half fold. And although the gross revenue includes the "Casual and Territorial," yet, after deducting that, (£83,000,) there still remains the large ratio of £2 1s. 10d. per head.

As regards Taxes and Excise, our burdens are heavier by far than those of any of the other colonies in the list, with the solitary exception of Bermuda.

The comparative ratios of this colony and Canada are extraordinarily different:—

		£ s. d.
Gross Revenue	N. S. Wales	2 14 6	per head
	Canada	0 9 6	,,
Taxes and Excise	N. S. Wales	0 10 0	,,
	Canada	0 0 7	,,

* The population returns are for the year 1842, or last census.—Appendix to Lords' Report.

Our Adelaide papers by the Juno are to the 1st November.

There is but one subject of importance referred to in them, the depreciation in the price of Burra Burra shares. On the 1st of October these shares were quoted at £225: on the 1st November they were down to £100, and it was currently reported that some had been sold at £80. There are many causes for this decline in price; the strike of the miners, there being no ore at the port and ships on demurrage, and a reduction in the price of ore at home of £8 per ton; but the great cause appears to be the fact that the directors were not competent to manage the financial affairs of so large a company. The strikes of the men, and the reduction in the price of ore, would have caused a slight reduction, but it was the discovery of the fact, that the company's account at the bank was overdrawn £40,000, and that a large portion of the last dividend was paid with borrowed capital, which caused the shares to come down by the run nearly sixty per cent. It appeared to be pretty certain there would be no dividend for this half-year, which will keep the shares down; and as many shares were bought on speculation, and bills given for them, which parties have no means of meeting, we expect to hear of numerous insolvencies before the end of the year, and that persons who have capital to invest will be able to purchase shares for something below £100 each, at which price we have no doubt they will be a valuable property to those who buy, not to gamble but to invest the money. The South Australian Register comments with severity, and apparently with great justice, on the conduct of the directors. One of the articles (which we have not seen) appears to have provoked the ire of those gentlemen, for they have commenced nine actions for libel against the proprietors.

The colonists appear much opposed to the intended Irish Orphan Immigration.

The only news from Auckland is that Heki was beginning to be exceedingly troublesome, and that those who profess to know him say that he meditates an outbreak.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT.—Friday.

Before His Honor Mr. Justice Dickinson and a Jury of four.

CAMPBELL AND COMPANY v. ABERCROMBIE AND COMPANY.

This was an action of assumpsit, brought by the plaintiffs, trading under the name of Campbell and Co., against the defendants, William Abercrombie and John Mackay, trading under the name of Abercrombie and Co., on several promissory notes of the respective amounts of £271 12s 4d.; £331 19s. 8d., £331 19s. 8d., £300, £253 6s. 2d., £800, and £800, of which the defendants, of the first three and two last, were makers, and of the others, indorsers to the plaintiffs. The first five were made and became due before the insolvency of the defendants, and the two last were alleged to be made by them after that event. The defendant Mackay suffered judgment to go by default. The defendant Abercrombie pleaded that the firm did not make or indorse the respective notes alleged to have been made or endorsed by them; that they paid the said several notes, and as to the first five notes, that the firm on 13th of May sequestrated their estates.

The Solicitor-General and Mr. Broadhurst appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Darvall for the defendant Abercrombie.

The Solicitor-General to the Jury: The plaintiffs in this case sue as the surviving partners of Campbell and Co., carrying on business as merchants in Lower George-street, Sydney; the defendants are partners trading under the style of Abercrombie and Co., which was composed of W. Abercrombie and John Mackey. The several notes mentioned in the declaration may not all be due; some may be renewals for others, but still the plaintiffs' claim to the renewed notes was not given up; indeed, some portions of them may have been paid. It will be proved that the defendants did either make or indorse all the notes; that the defendants traded under the firm they signed as. As to the plea of sequestration, that will not be a good defence, unless it is shown that it was followed up by certificate.

Evidence was then given, to prove that the notes were made or indorsed by the defendants; that they traded under the style of Abercrombie and Co. Other notes or bills were proved, not mentioned in the declaration, which were made by the firm; signed, some by the defendant Mackay, and some by the defendant Abercrombie, and since the estate of the firm was placed under sequestration.

Mr. Darvall then addressed the jury. He said it was not fair towards the defendants, if all the notes mentioned in the pleadings were not due, to embarrass the case with their proof or with their statement. In fact they are not due; it will appear that the first five notes were consolidated and paid by the first £800 note; this note was renewed by the second and last £800, and which was discounted, as he had been instructed, by the Bank of Australasia for the plaintiffs; they, the Bank, agreeing not to look to the plaintiffs as liable on it. So far for the plea of payment. As to the first five notes the defendants have pleaded another plea, that of sequestration; and though it was asserted on the other side, that to prove the mere order of sequestration would not be a statutory bar to the action; yet the course of practice in these courts had been otherwise, and he would submit, that having proved the order for sequestration, that this was sufficient, and would be a bar to the plaintiffs' claiming on the notes made before the sequestration of the firm. He would submit, too, that according to law, the insolvency of the firm put an end to the partnership; so that after the 13th of May, neither partner had the right to pledge the credit of the late firm by making or indorsing notes in its name. It will appear that the first £800 note after the insolvency, was signed by Abercrombie for the firm; it again was renewed by a note signed by Mackey for the firm; these notes, therefore, the late firm could not be liable on; but if they were liable on them, the plaintiffs have been paid them, by the arrangement already spoken of by the bank.

Evidence was then given to the effect that the first £800 after the insolvency was given in payment of the first five notes, by virtue of an arrangement as to some composition, the nature of which did not appear. It was then proved, that this note was renewed over and over again in the Bank by the plaintiffs; but it was indignantly denied that the last £800 mentioned in the declaration (dated in January, 1847) was discounted by the Bank, the Bank not looking to the plaintiffs as liable. In fact, it was proved that the plaintiffs had to retire that note with their own moneys. From the insolvency proceedings produced, it appeared that the firm were made insolvent on the 13th May, 1843, that the estate was released from sequestration on the 5th of July in the same year; that the private estate of John Mackey was sequestrated on the 27th October, 1843. It was shown, too, that after the insolvency the defendants did not carry on business as partners, except for the purpose of winding up the estate.

The Solicitor-General then at some length replied. He said, as he had anticipated, the defendants had not proved that the firm had ever obtained their certificate from the Insolvent Court, so this plea had failed. Then, as to the plea of payment, he would ask had this been proved? How is it attempted to be made out? why, that some £1488, the sum total of the first notes was paid by a note for £800. How could this be? Doubtless there was some slight allusion to a composition made by the defendants, but there was no evidence on the point; had there been an agreement to take a composition it ought to have been pleaded as such. Here it would be as well to remark, in answer to the accusation of want of fairness in suing on all the notes, that the particulars of demand, which are part of the record, limit the plaintiffs as to the amount they can recover, besides interest, to £1488 odd, being the amount of the first five notes, therefore the defendants were fully aware that the plaintiffs could not recover on all the notes. Then as to the plea of payment, that must share the fate of the other pleas. Doubtless, had it been shown that the plaintiffs had got the last £800 note discounted, and that no recourse was to be made to them as to liability, this would have amounted to something like a payment, as between the plaintiffs and defendants; but the evidence showed that the plaintiffs had themselves to retire this said last note; it was therefore no payment. The defendants are still liable on the first five notes; and for the amount of them, together with the interest, about £600, the plaintiffs go.

His Honor then summed up, and after stating the different counts and issues, said, as to the two notes made after the insolvency, that he was of opinion, insolvency generally was a dissolution of partnership; but here there was some evidence, that after such dissolution the firm still existed and carried on its business as heretofore; the more especially as the one note was signed by one partner, and the other by the other partner. This being the case, there was evidence that all the notes declared on were made or indorsed by the defendants. As to the plea of payment, as pleaded, it is attempted to be shown,—the proof, in fact, given, amounts to it—that £800 was given in payment for £1488,—a less in satisfaction of a larger sum; which could not well be, unless in pursuance of some agreement, which had not been proved nor pleaded. Then, said his Honor, the plea of insolvency had failed: for though the act says that the plea is to be pleaded generally, yet to be of any avail, to be a statutory bar, it must be shown that the party pleading it has had granted to him a certificate. Here no certificate had been proved; indeed the evidence showed that there never was one. His Honor concluded by recommending the Jury to find for the plaintiffs on all the issues.

The Jury retired, and found a verdict for the plaintiffs, damages £2088 17s. 10d. against both defendants.

Just as the Jury were about to give their verdict, it was discovered, that the Jury had not been sworn to assess the damages, as against Mackey; they were resworn to do so, and then delivered their verdict as above.

THORNTON v. HILL.

This was an action brought on two promissory notes for £10 each; of which the defendant was the maker, and were indorsed by the payee of each, to the plaintiff; the defendant denied the indorsements, and that the consideration for each failed. A witness proved the indorsements by the payee of each. No defence was offered.

The Jury found for the plaintiff, damages £29 16s.

Mr. Broadhurst appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Fisher for the defendant; attorney for the plaintiff Mr. Thurlow; and Mr. Little for the defendant.

IRVING, &c. v. SLY.

This was an action on an attorney's bill, to which the defendant pleaded the general issue. From the statement of the learned counsel for the plaintiff, it appeared that the action had been tried before, when the Jury found a verdict for the defendant, and the plaintiff was suing as the official assignee of the estate of Mr. Robert Johnson, the attorney, to which estate the defendant was indebted under the following circumstances:—There being a dispute between one Henry Johnson (no relative of the attorney) and one Stewart, respecting some cedar, then lying at the Tweed River, Henry Johnson's interest in it having been sold to Sly, he and Henry Johnson went to the office of Mr. Robert Johnson, and gave him instructions to commence an action of trover against Stewart in respect of the cedar, the defendant Sly at the time saying that he would be responsible. The action was accordingly commenced and prosecuted to trial. During the progress of the action, Sly had frequent communications with Mr. Johnson, the attorney, in respect of the action. After the action was at an end, a bill of costs was delivered to the defendant; and through some mistake in the clerk who made it out, and who was ignorant of the agreement between the attorney and Sly, some few of the items were charged to Henry Johnson, the plaintiff in the action of trover. In this bill sums of money, received from Sly during the progress of the action, were credited to him. To recover the balance due on this bill, about £46, this action was brought. This was the plaintiff's version of the matter. On the other hand, for the defendant, it was proved by Henry Johnson himself, that he gave the instructions for the action, and not in the presence of Sly. Though he admitted that Sly might have gone once or twice with him to the office of Mr. Johnson, the attorney; but on neither occasion, it was positively sworn by him, did Sly ever propose that he should be liable for the costs incurred. The same witness also swore positively that he, and not Sly, paid the moneys to Mr. Johnson the attorney, on account of the action: and, lastly, that Sly had not the slightest interest in the cedar, the subject matter of the action of trover.

His Honor summed up, and the Jury found for the plaintiff, damages £46.

SUPPLY OF WATER TO THE CITY.

Report of the Water Committee of the City Council for the period of their appointment from the 1st November, 1847, to the 30th October, 1848.

Your Committee, consisting of Alderman Allen, Councillors Paton, Egan, Board, Smidmore, Neale, Jenkins, Thornton, Wilkie, Henderson, Driver, and Brown, have agreed to submit to the Council a statement of their proceedings, and of the improvements effected to the water works during the year for which they were appointed to act. With this view, they have caused a report to be prepared by the City Surveyor, which is appended hereto, and which describes in detail the improvements effected to the Water Works during the period referred to, the expenditure during that time, and the present amount of revenue derived from the supply of water.

A plan is appended showing the water pipes laid in the city to the present date, and distinguishing the pipes laid under the direction of your Committee during the period comprehended in the Report, from those laid in former years.

GEORGE ALLEN, Chairman.

Town Hall, October 30, 1848.

City Surveyor's Office,
Sydney, October 24, 1848.

Gentlemen,—In accordance with your instructions I have the honour to lay before you a statement of the improvements effected to the City Water Works, from the 1st of November, 1847, to the present date.

Considerable improvements have been made in the period referred to, both in augmenting and extending the supply of water through the city, and in improving the condition of the Water Works at Lachlan Swamp and the Tunnel.

The following are the principal improvements which have been performed in the city:—

A three-inch water pipe has been laid in Castlereagh-street, from King to Hunter streets. The cost of this work has been £94 12s., and a revenue of £55 15s. is already derivable from it.

The former pipe in Castlereagh-street, between Goulburn and Bathurst streets having proved insufficient for the increased consumption of its neighbourhood, has been taken up, and a three-inch pipe laid from Goulburn to Park streets, by which the populous district around it is amply supplied. The cost of this work amounted to £90 10s.; and, besides the increased accommodation to the neighbourhood, it returns a revenue of £20.

A three-inch pipe has been laid from the Cumberland-street main to bring water to the houses in the higher portion of Jamison-street, where the supply had before been insufficient. The cost of this work was £15 15s.

A six-inch pipe has been laid in Hunter-street, to connect the pipes laid in Pitt and O'Connell streets, and allow a free circulation of the water between them. This work has also had the good effect of augmenting the supply to the Bent-street fountain, so as to enable it to be left open throughout the day, instead of four hours only as before. Its cost was £35 4s.

The nine-inch pipe in Park-street has been continued from Pitt-street to George-street, and has proved of the greatest benefit in augmenting the supply to the pipes in George and Parramatta streets. The cost of this work, deducting the value of the three-inch pipe which it replaced, has been £112.

A three-inch pipe has been laid in Swan-street, leading from George-street South. The cost of this work has been about £30, while a revenue of £17 15s. is derived from it.

A three-inch pipe has been laid in Pitt-street between Liverpool and Campbell streets. The cost of this work has been £81 9s., and a revenue of £10 10s. is derived from it.

Two three-inch pipes have been laid in George-street South, between the Hay Market and Parramatta-street, that on the eastern side being carried from the Hay Market nearly to Gipps-street, and that on the western to join the Parramatt-street pipe at the Old Toll Bar. About 900 feet of piping which was laid across the Government Paddock, between the Hay Market Fountain and Carter's Barracks, have been taken up and used in the execution of this work. Its cost has amounted to £118, while a revenue of £15 10s. is derived from it.

The twelve-inch main in Liverpool-street, between the South Head Road and George-street, has been laid, and it now only remains, for the completion of this important work, to connect it with the pipes in George, Pitt, and Castlereagh-streets.

The three-inch piping for Miller's Point, extending from Kent-street to the end of Victoria Terrace, has been procured from the contractor, and a considerable portion of it placed in the ground.

Upon these pipes, including the two last mentioned, thirty-three additional fire-plugs are placed, to afford supplies of water for extinguishing fires in the city.

I may add also that a three-inch pipe, about 1900 feet in length, formerly laid along Hyde Park, from the tunnel head to King-street, where it was of no service to the city, has been taken up and used on the above mentioned works. The quantity of piping thus found unproductive, at this place and at Carter's Barracks, which has been taken up and laid along the inhabited streets, was 2800 feet.

From the improvements effected in this and the former year, the fountains, even in the higher portions of the city, are abundantly supplied with water. The fountain at Pitt and Park streets has been removed to the poorer and more populous neighbourhood of Park and Castlereagh streets, and several of the other fountains have been thoroughly and substantially repaired.

The erection of a pump over one of the tunnel shafts on the South Head Road, about midway between Lyons-terrace and Bourke-street, has afforded an ample supply of water to the numerous residents in the neighbouring portions of the Reilly Estate.

I shall now proceed to describe the improvements effected to Lachlan Swamp and the Tunnel.

The shaft adjacent to the South Head Road at the City Boundary, has been rebuilt with new stone. Its old lining was found so decayed as to be in hourly danger of falling into the tunnel, and obstructing the course of the water; and its renewal was, from this cause, a most difficult and dangerous work, but it has been rebuilt from the bottom without accident, and made perfectly close and secure. The cost of this work has been £66 2s. 3d.

A considerable portion of the bank enclosing the main drain near the Tunnel mouth at Lachlan Swamp, which was left unfinished, and allowed the water to spread over a large surface on the swamp, has been completed in a substantial manner. It appeared on its completion that the effect of this work in dry seasons was to prevent a waste of more than 30,000 gallons of water daily. Its cost amounted to £15 15s.

The portion of the Tunnel where the city pipes are laid into it (at its termination on Hyde Park) has been covered with close stone flagging. It formerly consisted of a loose clay bottom, which rendered the water impure, the mouth of one of the principle mains being found half embedded in mud. The cost of this work has been £7 19s., and its effect will be very benefical in preventing the deposit of sediment in the water pipes.

In connexion with the laying the commencement of the twelve-inch main in Liverpool-street, a substantial stop-gate has been placed across the tunnel, at the junction of Liverpool-street with the South Head Road. By this means the lower portion of the tunnel, where the pipes enter it, can be drained of water when necessary for inspection or repairs, without delay or inconvenience.

It has also been determined to lay water pipes in Hunter-street, from Pitt-street to George-street, in George-street from Liverpool-street to Bathurst-street, in Bridge-street, and in Goulburn-street, from George-street to Dixon's Mills.

I may add also that the Water Works generally have been maintained and kept in order through the year, and numerous minor repairs effected to them.

The total expenditure incurred upon the City Water Works, during the period referred to in the report, are as follows:—

Salaries to superintendent and watchman	154	14	0
Wages	443	15	1
Water pipes, fountains, fire engines, and incidental	1766	9	4
	£2364	18	5

The annual revenue now returnable from the works may be stated thus, viz.:—

	£	s.	d.
Water laid on to houses	1487	17	6
Hyde Park fountain	280	0	0
Soldiers' Point ditto	102	0	0
Dock Yard ditto	135	0	0
	£2004	17	6

The actual amount received from the above sources, from the 1st November, 1847, to this date, is £1742 0s. 2d.

The unexpended balance now remaining to the credit of the City Water Works, is £1051 2s. 9d.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
Your most obedient servant,
FRANCIS W. SHIELDS,
City Surveyor.

NATIVE RESERVES.

Extract from Despatch of the Right Honorable the Secretary for the Colonies, dated 11th February, 1848, to Governor Sir C. A. Fitz Roy.

There is, however, another system of Reserves of Land for the benefit of Natives, namely, that of setting apart small tracts of land vested in trustees specially appointed, not for their maintenance in their savage condition, but to be cultivated either by them, or for their advantage, by sale of the produce, or for their own consumption, affording also sites for schools, and whatever other fixed establishments experience may recommend as most calculated to serve them.

I should have thought that the Chief Protector's observations were intended to apply to this class of persons, had I not believed that this system, which he appears to speak of as a desideratum, was already in operation in your colony. I find by reference to former reports of Protectors of Aborigines, no fewer than seven reserves of this description mentioned as in existence five or six years ago, generally extending over a square mile each—at Loddon, Goulburn, Melbourne, and Geelong in particular; and from other quarters I had been lately apprised that some of these at least were in operation; that the flocks were maintained also for the use of the natives, and some land cultivated for their benefit. But these are points on which the last reports, to which I am adverting, afford very little information; I can therefore only say, that as far as experience vouches, this plan of setting apart comparatively small portions of land, to be used in the manner I have above described, under the eye of the Protectors, is, perhaps, the most successful of the experiments which hitherto been tried in the execution of the difficult, but necessary duty which the existence of these tribes within our limits throws upon us. In South Australia it has been applied, in combination with another measure—that of rendering these reserves central depôts for the distribution of rations among natives, at the seasons in which they cannot, without much privation and extensive wandering, procure sustenance for themselves; and, upon the whole, the success attained in the management of the natives in South Australia has been greater than in any other colony similarly circumstanced. If the same expedient of distributing rations has not been hitherto adopted at the reserves in New South Wales (as from former accounts I imagined it had been) it is very desirable that it should be attempted.

Understood in this manner, I think it is highly important that immediate attention should be paid to the suggestion of the Chief Protector, which I have above cited. Reserves should be established where they do not exist, particularly in districts recently brought within the range of occupation; and those already set apart for this purpose should be turned to account with all possible speed, if they are not so at present. And you will understand that, although the directions which I give on this subject are necessarily general, I am not the less anxious to impress them on your attention.

It would be impossible to go more minutely into particulars without more knowledge of existing details than I at present possess. But that both yourself and the Secretary of State may be kept instructed of the condition of the natives and the progress of those experiments, it is necessary that the reports of the protectors should, in every instance, contain some summary, however brief, of the state of things at each reserve and station under their inspection. They should not think that they are not called upon to make any statement where no particular change has taken place; but should exhibit periodically, and as nearly in a tabular form as the nature of the subject will allow, the actual use made of the land, the resort to it made by the natives, the amount of rations (if any) distributed among them, and any other particulars which admit of such recapitulation.

Among other practical methods of attempting to introduce improvement among the natives, to which the reserves might be rendered subservient, one in particular deserves attention, viz.,—the foundation of schools, both for adults and young persons, but especially the latter who are more open to receive and retain the impressions made upon them.

These schools should be formed, as much as possible, on the principle of combining the arts of industry with the elements of ordinary and religious education. To the omission to instruct the natives in those arts I attribute, in a great degree, the general failure of the experiments in their education which have been made. Although some portion of each day should be devoted to the purposes of instruction, the scholars should also be trained as early as possible, in mechanical employments, and in those of agriculture. Such occupations and the advantages which they would be taught to appreciate from a knowledge of them would constitute the chief inducement to remain, as they advance in life, in a state of civilization, and would tend to destroy that desire to return to a wild and roving life, which has generally influenced those whose education has not partaken of an industrial character, and who have consequently had no bond in common with civilized society. The advantages of such a training are perceptible, to a remarkable degree, amongst the natives of New Zealand, and, making every allowance for the difference of race, I still hope to see results which would more than justify the experiment in Australia. The expenses attending any measures of that nature should constitute the first charge upon the land revenue, a principle which Parliament has recognised in the Australian Land Sales Act.

LOWER HUNTER.

(From a Correspondent.)

The seasons of 1848 may be considered the most extraordinary of any that the oldest inhabitants can remember. The contrast between this year and the past one of 1847 is as great as anything in nature can be. From the early part of the Autumn of 1847, to the 1st of January, 1848, the eastern coast of New South Wales did not receive a single day's rain. There were occasional showers, but nothing to affect either the water-holes, the crops, or the grass; consequently the upper lands of the county of Cumberland, and similar places, did not produce even seed for the following year, of 1848.

The present year has been diametrically opposite. There have been rains of the heaviest cast, from the commencement of the year to this day: and the crops of all kinds have more or less suffered from their inconstant and unusual appearance. In this district, (which last year supplied Sydney with more wheat than all the rest of the counties beside), the wheat harvest will not yield much more than half a crop. The appearance of the wheat is pretty good till it is examined; it will then be found most wretchedly thin, with a great deal of blight and rust. The thinness arises from the extraordinary rains in June and July, which never allowed the wheat in the first instance to stool, as it is called.

In the vines there is a great deal of blight in the eating grapes, such as the Muscadine, the Sweetwater, and the Muscatel. The apples and pears were almost entirely cut off as the fruit was forming, caused by the unusual quantity of wet, followed by hot winds; even onions have been attacked with rust and blight, a vegetable that has never before been known to suffer in a similar way. In most cases, they have run to top, and taken the rust without bulbing.

ROYAL ENGINEERS.—Brevet Major F. H. Baddeley, now at Ceylon, is under orders to proceed to this colony as commanding Royal Engineer. Upon his arrival, Lieutenant-Colonel Gordon will sail for England.

POLICE OFFICE.—The business on Saturday was not heavier than usual for the last day of the week. There were five cases on the free list—the remanded case of Quigley, alleged to be connected with uttering a forgery, which was again remanded, and four charges of assault, in three of which the prosecutors did not appear, and the fourth was dismissed by the Court. The drunkard list also contained five charges, which were disposed of by Mr. Miles in the usual manner. Alderman Allen and W. C. Botts, Esq., the magistrates for the day, were both in attendance. W. Dawes and W. Fanning, Esqs., have been summoned for to-day.

IMMIGRATION.—The immigrants by the ship Emperor have been disposed of as follows:—Proceeded to Parramatta 109, to Maitland 18, to the Clarence River 20, hired from the depôt 13, hired from the ship 59, left the ship on their own account 58, placed in the Lunatic Asylum 1: total 278. Intimation of the chartering of the following ships has been received by the Immigration Agent: the General Hewitt, to sail August 15; the King William, August 30; and the Walmer Castle, 7th September. This is exclusive of the Artemisa, which was to sail for Moreton Bay the end of July, and is therefore now overdue; and a ship for Twofold Bay, to sail early in August.

SNEAKING.—During the absence at church, yesterday forenoon, from their residence at Woolloomooloo, of Mr. Broughton and his family, the opportunity afforded of a door being left open was made available, by one or more persons stealing from the hall a black dress coat, a handkerchief, a pair of gloves, a black cloth vest, and a pair of black cloth trousers.

CARTERS AND PORTERS.—By the by-law which has been sent up to the City Council by the By-law Committee, and which will probably come on for discussion at the next meeting of the Council, on Thursday next, it is declared that every cart, van, dray, waggon, or other carriage, used as a carriage of burthen, which shall ply for hire, or which shall be used for conveying fuel, water, or other articles for sale, in the city, and every driver of such carriages, shall be licensed, and within twenty-four hours thereafter registered in the office of the Town Clerk. Every such licensed carriage must have legibly painted thereon the name and place of abode of the proprietor thereof, with the number of the license, and the words "licensed cart," or dray, &c., as the case may be. No such licensed carriage to stand in any street or place within the city longer than may be necessary for loading and unloading, except while standing for hire at any place appointed for that purpose. Section 9, regulates the fares:—"From or to any wharf, store, house, or place, any distance, not exceeding half a mile, one horse load, 1s. 6d.; and for a two-horse load 2s., including loading and unloading, excepting from Lamb's, Botts', Brown's, Towns', Moore's, Duke's, or Deloitte's Wharves, for one-horse load from any of the said wharves, 2s., and for every two-horse load 2s. 6d.; and for every additional half mile, and not exceeding in the whole one mile, 6d. per one-horse load, and 1s. per two-horse load, and so on for every additional distance, increasing in the same proportion." Taking a larger amount than the authorised fare is made punishable by fine; so also refusing a fare when not previously engaged. "Every licensed carter shall be answerable for any loss, damage, or injury, which may arise or be done to the goods or wares entrusted to him, and in default of any such carter making compensation for such loss, damage, or injury, as shall have arisen or been done to the said goods or wares so entrusted to him, as aforesaid, shall, upon conviction thereof before any justice of the peace, forfeit his license." Compensation is awarded to any carter sent for and not employed, and for detentions. Public stands are to be appointed. The proprietor or proprietors of every cart, van, dray, &c., shall paint or cause to be painted on a conspicuous part of the right or off side thereof, before the same be lawfully used within the city of Sydney, his or her or their name or names, and place or places of abode. The regulations for carters extend over thirty sections, but the foregoing are the chief. In regard to porters, no person will be permitted to ply for hire as a porter in the city of Sydney without being duly licensed. Every person desirous of plying for hire as a porter shall make application in writing at the office of the Town Clerk, which application shall contain the name and place of residence of such applicant, and be accompanied with a letter of recommendation from two respectable persons, for his cleanliness, sobriety, and honesty; and the application of each person, if approved of by the City Council, shall be registered at the office of the Town Clerk, and, upon payment of ten shillings, such applicant shall receive a license to ply for hire as such porter as aforesaid, and a badge, upon which shall be engraved his name and the number of his license." Porters refusing a hire subject to a penalty, and liable for loss or injury to goods while in their custody. Rates to be fixed, penalty for taking a larger than the authorised rate or fare, and compensation to be made for detention, &c.

THE MACINTYRE RIVER.—Our own columns have afforded proof that during the last fifteen or eighteen months, the relations between the whites and the blacks on the Macintyre River have been of a most unsatisfactory character. Within that time not less than seven whites have been murdered by the blacks. First there were two men killed on the road; then Mr. Marks's boy; then two men of Mr. Perrier's; then Jemmy the Jockey, on Mr. Wightman's station; and just lately a bullock driver in the employ of Messrs. Yeomans and Baldwin, while removing the stores and other property from the deserted station of Mr. Marks. There is no such authentic record to be had of the blacks who have been killed by the whites during that period; but we may rest assured that at least life for life has been exacted, and something more. And yet during this period the government has been little more than a passive spectator of these mutual murders. Instead of taking immediate and vigorous measures to follow up and punish the perpetrators of the earlier outrages, without respect to colour, its interference has been delayed until a fearful mass of crime has accumulated; and then the powers of the law are set in motion to punish the offenders of one party, while no effective effort is made to bring those of the other to justice. The practical effect of this policy is now being exemplified; the blacks are emboldened in their aggressions; the stations on the Macintyre are being abandoned, the men declining to remain on them exposed to the attacks of the aborigines, without protection from the government, and yet afraid to fight in their own defence. Has the government, in allowing things to get to this pass, done its duty either to the whites or to the blacks? Has it no higher and better function in regard to the relations between these parties than the irregular and partial punishment of crime? Is it not its bounden duty, when disturbances of this nature arise, to interfere immediately and effectively, instead of tacitly sanctioning mutual outrage? It is surely better to prevent bloodshed than to punish murder. The squatters on the Macintyre hold their stations under the sanction of the government. They pay their license fees as a consideration for the use of the land they occupy; they contribute their full quota to the general revenue of the colony, from which the ordinary police expenditure is defrayed; and over and above this, they pay a special tax on stock, from which those who are not squatters are exempt, in order to provide a fund from which extra expenses incurred for their protection and benefit may be paid. And yet during eighteen months of lawless aggression against life and property on the one side, and against life and natural rights on the other, the government has virtually done nothing to prevent outrage, and to afford the extra protection which, under the circumstances, was absolutely required. If government cannot, or will not, afford protection, they are not justified in sanctioning occupation, or in levying license fees and assessment. From the latest accounts which have come down, it appears probable, that if the government do not immediately organise some force for effectually protecting life and property on the Macintyre, many of the stations on that river will have to be abandoned. The longer this efficient protection is withheld, the greater will be the waste of life and property, and the more difficult the ultimate task of restoring order in the district.—Maitland Mercury.

DEATH FROM DROWNING.—Between four and five o'clock on Friday afternoon, Mrs. Murphy, a resident at Newtown, missed her son, a child of little more than two years and a-half old; finding that he did not answer to her call, she went in search of him, and, melancholy to relate, on passing by a waterhole, saw the body of her son floating on the surface. She immediately pulled the body out of the water, but the vital spark had flown. An inquest was held on the body at the residence of the parents, on Saturday afternoon. Dr. Tierney having stated his opinion from the appearance of the body, and the history of the case given by the mother, that death had resulted from suffocation by drowning. The Jury returned a verdict of accidentally drowned.

PARRAMATTA.

CHARGE OF HORSE STEALING.—The bench of this district have been lately occupied for some hours on several days in the investigation of a charge preferred against a person named Berry, a resident in the town, who carries on the business of a baker, for horse-stealing. Numerous witnesses have been examined both in support of the charge and for its rebuttal. The substances of the charge is as follows:—As, on the 30th ultimo, a team conveying immigrants to Goulburn was passing en route to Goulburn, through Berrima, a publican named M'Dermott, resident there, recognised in one of the horses an animal belonging to him, which had been stolen out of a securely fenced paddock at Harper's Hill, during the night of the 23rd January last. On stopping the driver of the team, claiming the horse, and calling on him to account for his possession of it, he stated he had hired it from Berry; and in reply to further questioning, added he believed the owner bought the animal eight or ten months previously in Parramatta, of a young man who was a native, and that the amount paid, bridle and saddle being given in, was £4 10s. On the foregoing being reported to Mr. Chapman, the Berrima chief constable, he proceeded to Parramatta, and put the police of that district in motion, who lost no time in seeing Berry. Admission of the horse being his property, and at the same time naming his colour and describing its distinctive marks, was at once made by the accused, and who stated he purchased it from a man who was staying at a public house in the town in the month of January. Farther enquiries being pressed, Berry stated that he neither knew the man selling the animal, nor did he give any account of himself, nor did he (Berry) ask any; but he had a receipt signed by the seller, and duly witnessed, for £6, the amount of the purchase. Chief Constable Ryan then accompanied Berry to his residence, in order to see the receipt. On producing the document, it was for the sale of a horse, colour and brands described similar to the stolen one, and for £6, and bore the signature on the back of a person named Michie, as witness. Whilst, however, the receipt was being got by Berry from amongst other papers, he observed he thought it was in his own handwriting, but was not positive. On producing it, however, and apparently closely examining it, he admitted it to be Michie's (the witness) writing. Berry having stated that he had first been informed of the horse being for sale by a man named Gill, who was at the time waiter at the public-house where the person disposing of it was staying; reference was made to this person, when he stated he was cognizant of the sale, and that the purchase money was £3 10s. The evidence of the chief-constable of Parramatta was far fully supported by his brother official of Berrima, who was present when the foregoing circumstances transpired. On the man Michie being examined, he deposed, that he drew out the receipt for the purchase of the horse, and the amount it acknowledged was £3 10s.; and he also witnessed the signature of one Michael Morton, who asserted the animal to be his property. On examining the receipt, the witness identified his signature at the back to be his own writing; but when he made it, it was to a receipt which he drew out, and both the sellers, (Morton) and his own signature written on the same side of the half-sheet of paper. The receipt he (Michie) drew out was for £3 10s. That now produced for £6 was not in his writing, and on closely examining the document, his impression was that all above his signature was torn off, and that on the back of the paper to which it was on, was written the receipt now produced, and which was in Berry's handwriting. Gill, the waiter at the public house, and who had informed Berry of the horse being for sale, confirmed the evidence as to the price paid being £3 10s. Evidence was then adduced as to the saddle and bridle, which it had been stated went with the horse at its sale. It seemed that on or about the time the horse was stolen from Harper's Hill, there was also taken (believed to be on the very same night) a saddle from the stable of Mr. Surgeon Bransby, at Camden. This saddle was found in Berry's house by Mr. Chapman, together with a bridle; but which, although probably stolen, no person has as yet reported. Mr. Bransby identifying the saddle as his property, the prosecution evidence was concluded. Mr. Gould, who appeared for Berry, called some witnesses to disprove Michie's statement, but it remained unshaken, and the case stands at present remanded, at his request, until Thursday next.

ORIGINAL CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—It is stated in the leading article of this morning's Herald, that the Provisional Railway Committee have wisely determined in favour of a tramway. This must be a mistake, as the subject is at present only under discussion. The Committee have applied for estimates of the expense of a tramroad; till they are furnished, and the expense, advantages, and disadvantages of each are carefully examined, a correct conclusion cannot be come at; as the remark is likely to mislead the public, I should be obliged by your inserting this explanation.

Your obedient humble servant,
THOMAS WOORE.

73, Phillip-street, Sydney, November 11.

[We were led to believe that the Committee had arrived at that determination, on the broad ground that the colony cannot at present find money for a railway, such as are used in England.—EDS.]

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—Trusting to your accustomed vigilance in public matters, I have been anxiously waiting your notice and condemnation of the remarks made by the Auditor-General of this colony, annexed to a series of resolutions received by the colonial government from a select committee of the House of Commons, on the subject of the introduction into this colony of the double entry system of book-keeping into its public departments. I should have wished a more immediate attention to this matter, and that impressions so false should not have gone forth uncontradicted to the world, and without their refutation, when the insult to the common sense and business habits of our mercantile community was given.

Your have selected two of the remarks of our respected Auditor-General, which are a specimen of the whole. The first, stating a doubt whether clerks adequately versed in the system of book-keeping by double entry, could be procured in the colony. The second, the assumption that the system of single entry or simple classification, is, for aught the functionaries of the Audit Office know, superior to the uniformity, systematic correctness, and complete comprehensiveness, of book-keeping by double entry.

Let any disinterested person in England read these remarks, emanating as they do from a supposed authority, and the impression on his mind must be, that no competent parties as book-keepers are to be found in this colony, and that our merchants' accounts are kept by the slovenly and incomplete system of waste book and ledger only; and that more than the single entry of every chandler's shop they cannot aspire to.

The effect of these misstatements will be still further to reduce any remnant of patronage the colonial government may now hold out, and to exclude the rising generation of the colony, and those who have made this country their home, from any participation in the local management of its affairs. The situation of every incompetent person in the Audit Office, could, by colonial appointments, be filled by really efficient bookkeepers understanding the most approved methods of double entry now adopted in England.

The self-consoling feeling, that "When ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise," will not be long allowed to comfort a well-paid functionary in these enlightened times; and I am much mistaken if the Auditor-General will not, when he receives the courteous, but firm reply from the Select Committee of the House of Commons, "If you are incompetent to carry out our wishes, we must find those of more capacity and recent experience to do so," be most anxious to amend his replies to those resolutions, and that he will then admit that the arcana of bookkeeping is not centred so entirely in the Colonial Audit Office.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
A BOOKKEEPER OF TWENTY YEARS' PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE.

IMPORTANT!

TO CAPITALISTS, SETTLERS, NEWLY-ARRIVED EMIGRANTS, AND OTHERS.

FIVE HUNDRED ACRES

OF RICH ARABLE LAND, ON THE BANKS OF

THE HUNTER RIVER,

BEING A PORTION OF THE MAGNIFICENT ESTATE OF

"OAKHAMPTON,"

Within one mile and a half of the flourishing

TOWN OF WEST MAITLAND.

MR. JEREMIAH LEDSAM has been honoured with instructions from Robert Lethbridge, Esq., to sell by public auction, on the Ground, on

WEDNESDAY, THE 15TH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1848,
At Twelve o'clock, noon,

FIVE HUNDRED ACRES,

more or less, of the magnificent Estate of

"OAKHAMPTON,"

being rich arable land, well watered by the River Hunter on the one side, and by a lagoon on the other, situate, lying, and being within one mile and a half of the flourishing and commercial town of West Maitland.

TITLE UNEXCEPTIONABLE.—QUIT-RENT REDEEMED.

Purchaser to defray legal expense of conveyance.

TERMS—25 per cent. cash deposit on the fall of the hammer; the residue by approved bills at 6, 9, and 12 months, with security on the property if required.

Mr. Ledsam respectfully but earnestly requests the special attention of Capitalists, Settlers, newly-arrived Immigrants, and the public generally, to the sale now advertised, comprising 500 acres of the magnificent and far-famed Estate of Oakhampton, situated on the banks of the River Hunter, and abundantly watered.

The property to be submitted is proverbial for its productive qualities, and for excellence stands UNRIVALLED within the vast continent of New South Wales.

The land will be sub-divided into farms of 20 acres each and upwards, with a view to encourage, establish, and perpetuate, an industrious yeomanry.

A more favourable opportunity has not presented itself for years past to capitalists and emulative settlers to acquire, on safe and moderate terms, first-rate agricultural farms in the important district of the Hunter, and in the suburbs of the town of Maitland, which, for commercial grandeur, is only surpassed by the city of Sydney. 6861
